Introduce some of these simple things into your daily life and you will begin to see the benefits to your mental health and wellbeing.